Opis
Dev Studio is a company which is capable of designing and developing special electronic systems based on modern technologies (sensors, microprocessors, microcomputers, audio modules, LED displays, etc.). Our solutions can be used in different areas like economy, culture, education, marketing, industry... Our core business are mostly based on DevBox. This is electronic device that is able to transform "potential buyers' actions" (moving, touching, pressing some buttons, or whatever action our client wants) into "electronic response" (playing multiple AV files, turning some lights on, making the model move in some way, or anything else).
